LOGAN DETAINED IN NAGASAKI BY JAPANESE HEALTH SERVICE

Here Because of Prevalence of Cholera in Manila

Detained in Nagasaki 12 hours while a medical inspection of passengers and crew was made by the Japanese health authorities, with none of the passengers or crew allowed ashore while the vessel was in that port in Nagasaki for the same period. bunkering and taking on passengers, Many Going from Here was the experience of the U. S. army transport Logan, Capt. C. F. Williams, which docked at Pier 6 about 7:30 this morning from Manila and Nagasaki.

The quarantine of the transport in Nagasaki, where the Logan stayed 21 hours, was a part of precautions taken cholera carriers coming in from Munila on the transport, and also to safeguard the Logan's passengers against | cers autonounes and nousehold guods, texpect up the liner and attempt to contracting the disease in Japan or becoming cholera carriers by going Lone Soldier Detained

Quarantine Kept in Effect On arrival at this port today the same quarantine measures were put into effect by Dr. F. E. Trotter, chief | quarantine officer of the U. S. public health service in the Territory of Hawati, which has been followed since Asiatic cholera broke out in the Orient. First and second-cabin passengers only were allowed ashore here, on passes secured from Quartermaster Agent J. P. Brust of the Logan. Armed sentries were posted to see that no one got on or off without special permits. The agent and his assistant, A. I. Moser, did not get their breakfast until after 9 o'clock, owing to the "bread line" of passengers Stowaways Going to S. F. waiting for the little red cards allowing them to set foot on land here.

How About That Doctor's Bill?

You simply had to have the doctor at that time when you were not prepared to pay his bill. Of course, the doctor came, and he's been waiting ever since for you to pay him, in little driblets, maybe. It isn't fair. A savings account at the time would probably have saved you the humiliation of asking for credit.
